Sneak a peek at the new Star Wars movie with Ewan McGregor and Liam Neeson (right).

Dear Liz,

I am a big fan of the Star Wars movies. After seeing the trailer for the new Star Wars movie, I've been wondering which character Liam Neeson plays. Thanks!

Ian A., 16, Bedford, OH

Dear Ian,

We've watched the trailer for Star Wars: Episode I—The Phantom Menace a bajillion times! So we've figured out that Liam Neeson plays the lead Jedi Knight who will help guide Anakin Skywalker (played by Jake Lloyd).

Cats Or Dogs: Who's Cooler?

Illustrations by George Booth

TRICKS

Cats: Have you ever seen a cat catch a Frisbee? Dogs: Sitting, shaking, fetching and playing

POTTY TRAINING

Cats: Two words: Kitty Litter. Dogs: Two words: Pooper Scooper.

Didn't think so.
dead are just a few of the many tricks a dog can learn.

Winner: Dogs win this round by a mile!

HOUSE DAMAGE

Cats: The cat just turned your mom's curtains into a mound of Silly String.

Dogs: Even if it's pouring rain, you still need to take the dog out for a walk. This round goes to the cats.

BREATH

Cats: Delicate hints of tuna, warm milk and catnip drift off the rough tongues of cats.

Dogs: Cats win this round—their breath may not smell like fresh mints and mouthwash, but at least it won't make your hair fall out.

KISSABILITY

Cats: Cats sure are cuddly, and you might wanna kiss 'em.

Dogs: Dogs sure are cuddly, and you might wanna kiss 'em.

DINNERTIME

Cats: Cats think, "Sniff, sniff, sniff—I believe this steak is more than a day old. No thank you, sir."

Dogs: Dogs think, "Whaddya mean you have no food? Come on, pal, open up the garbage can and let me feast!"

Winner: Sorry Mr. Finicky, but being picky means being difficult. The garbage disposal (the dog) wins this mealtime fight.

Winner: And the winner is.... Wait, hold on—we have a tie! Cats and dogs each win two rounds. Looks like we're going to need your help deciding once and for all which pet is cooler. Fill out the ballot on page 41 and send it to us, or vote online at gofetch.go.com. Your vote decides the winner!

Read Your

While it may not always seem like it, your pet does have reasons for the crazy things he does. Here we look into the minds of some pets to try to explain their strange behavior.

Illustrations by George Booth

Why does my cat spend so much time licking himself?

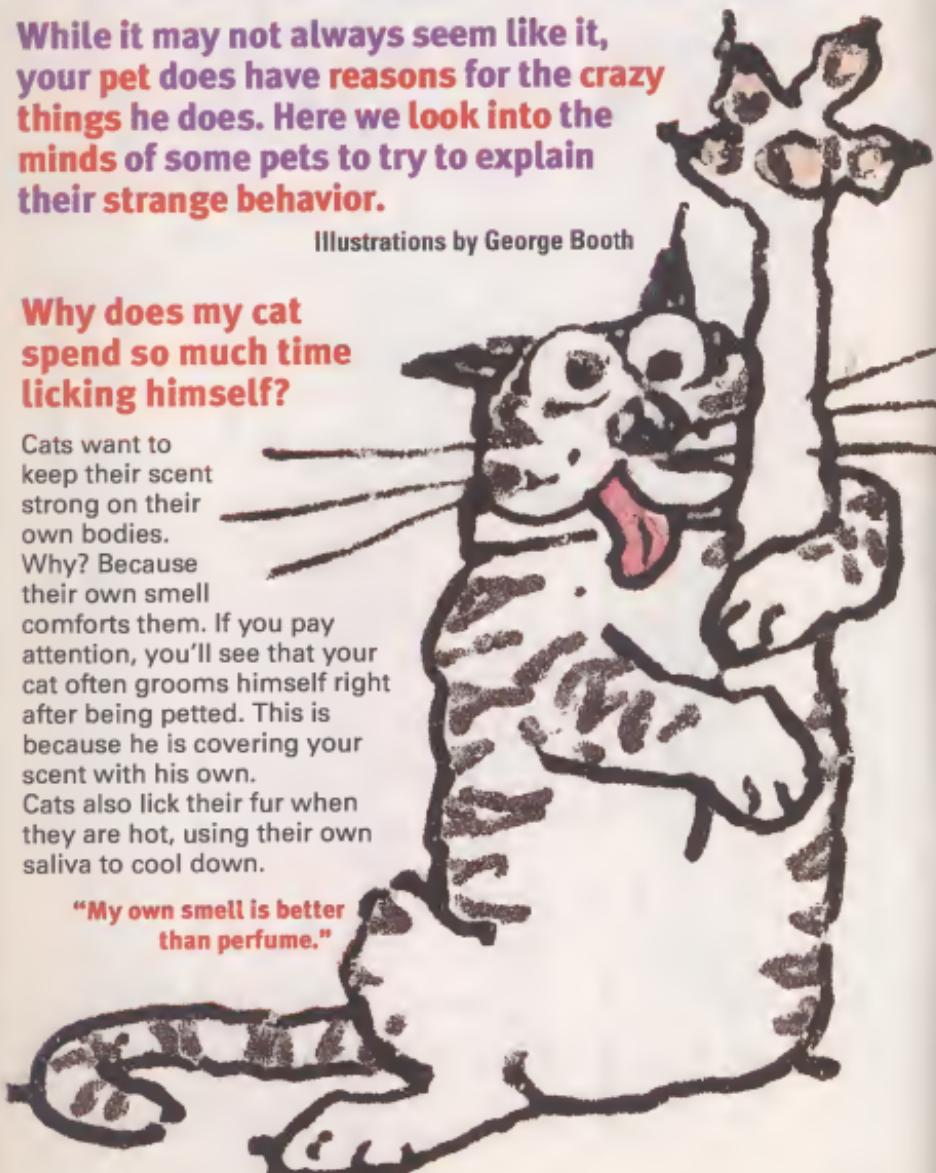

Cats want to keep their scent strong on their own bodies.

Why? Because their own smell comforts them. If you pay attention, you'll see that your cat often grooms himself right after being petted. This is because he is covering your scent with his own.

Cats also lick their fur when they are hot, using their own saliva to cool down.

"My own smell is better than perfume."

Pet's Mind!

Why does my cat always rub against me?

Like their bigger relatives (lions, tigers, etc.), who use smells to mark off their hunting areas, your house cat marks his territory by rubbing his scent onto objects. And like it or not, your cat considers you part of his space.

"Hey, quit moving, you're just another part of my pad."

Surf's Up!

In Corsica, a dog named Maui saved not one, not two, but three swimmers from drowning. They hung onto a surfboard while she towed them to shore!

Superdog

A 9-month-old English Springer Spaniel sprang into action when an intruder threatened his master. Despite being shot five times, the dog chased the stranger away. His bravery earned him the 1997 Ken-L Ration dog food award.

Rover to the Rescue

A dog was riding in a car with her owner when the car skidded off the road. The dog ran to the middle of the road and jumped up and down until someone stopped to help. Then she went back to the car to stand guard over her owner until more rescuers arrived.

ad Your Pet's Mind!

Why do some dogs chase their own tails?

Normally, dogs chase their own tails out of boredom. The dog is playing a "one-on-one" game because nothing else is going on.

Why does our cat arch his back and fluff his coat, especially when around dogs?

When your cat gets scared, he fluffs up his coat to look bigger and more dangerous.

"Who ya calling Fluff Ball, huh?!"

Catnap Catastrophe

An airline steward flew from London, England, to Montreal,

Canada. When he opened his suitcase, he was surprised to find his cat. She had decided to snuggle up in one of his sweaters when he was packing! She made it back to England safely but had to spend six months in quarantine before she could go home.

Crazy Cat

A four-month-old kitten followed mountain climbers to the top of the Matterhorn in the Alps—14,691 feet!

Cat 'N' Seek

When Simon the cat's owners moved out of their house, they couldn't find him anywhere. Twenty-two days later, they opened a crate and found Simon alive—and 12 pounds lighter!

Before going to sleep, my dog does a few spins. What's going on?

Back when dogs lived in the wild, they would turn around several times before sleeping. That was their way to turn piles of leaves or grass into comfortable beds. Now even though your dog already has a comfortable bed, he does the same thing out of habit.

"Spin, spin, spin...sleep."

My gerbil jumps around like he's crazy—should I be worried?

Probably not. In the wild, gerbils signal warnings by thumping their back legs. When in a cage, gerbils kick up their feet when something excites them.

"I'm so excited, and I just can't hide it!"

Read Your Pet's Mind!

Even if my dog hasn't been running, he still pants as if he just finished a long race.

That's because dogs, unlike humans, can only sweat from their feet. And with a fur coat that never comes off, dogs can overheat easily. All that panting is really a way to keep cool.

"How would you like to wear a fur coat all summer?"

Lap of Luxury

Cats spend about 70% of the day sleeping and 15% of the day grooming.

Pampered Pooches

Fido's Cafe in Manhattan's New York Dog Spa and Hotel is one of the only restaurants in America where owners can eat with their pets. Dogs are fed their fave chow while people eat human munchies. The cafe also caters birthday parties, with real cake for the humans and dog-food cake for the dogs.

Feline Fantasy

At the Cat's Inn in White Plains, Virginia, each kitty gets his own "room" overlooking a forest filled with bird feeders, sleeps in homemade quilts and eats food out of crystal dishes from a custom menu.

"One, two, three and stretch! Go for the burn."

My cat claws our furniture and drapes. Is she mad at us?

Probably not. Cats use their claws to keep their bodies in shape. The clawing movement stretches out your cat's muscles. The scratching also keeps your cat's claws nice and sharp, just like she likes them.

Read Your Pet's Mind!

"Hey, buddy, turn off the lights!"

Why doesn't my goldfish ever sleep?

While goldfish can't close their eyes (no eyelids), they do sleep. When the lights go out, they drop to the bottom of the aquarium and their color fades. If the lights go on unexpectedly, they will try to hide until their color returns.

My puppy keeps chewing all our shoes. Does he love smelly feet?

Like human babies, dogs go through a teething phase, and chewing on a shoe's hard leather helps the puppy's teeth come through. Your puppy may also be following a hunting instinct, using a shoe as the target of his aggression.

"Oooh, leather. What a treat for the teeth!"

Don't mess with him

A male tabby named Himmy weighed a whopping 46 pounds. He holds the record for the biggest cat ever.

Teeny Tiny Terrier

The smallest dog ever: a Yorkshire terrier that stood 2 1/2 inches high and weighed only 4 ounces

Stop or I'll go bald!

Josh the Wonder Dog was petted by 478,802 people between 1989 and 1997.

The Tail Tells All

The tails of both dogs and cats can show the animals' true feelings.

"I'm a relaxing cool cat."

"I'm a great dog!"

"I'm so happy to see you!"

"FIGHT!"

"OK, you win—
I'm defeated."

"I've been a bad,
bad doggy."

"Watch out, I might attack!"

"One step closer and I'm attacking."

What's inside the backpack

Holmes? Find out!

By Yolanda Crous

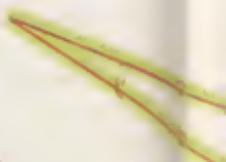

In "The Adventures of Shirley Holmes: Detective,"

Sherlock Holmes' great-grandniece continues his crime-solving tradition. But unlike Sherlock, Shirley carries more than a magnifying glass. We use x-ray vision to check out the detective tools in Shirley Holmes' backpack.

Brush and talcum powder

Shirley uses these to collect fingerprints—a great way to identify criminals.

Notebook

Shirley knows that a good detective writes everything down. She keeps her observations about the suspects and the crime scene here.

Tweezers

Shirley uses them to pluck bits of evidence from the crime scene. You didn't think she'd pick up suspicious hairs with her fingers, did you?

Binoculars

Shirley hauls these out whenever she wants to spy on a criminal—without being spied herself.

Sherlock's most famous detecting tool still comes in handy for Shirley's modern-day sleuthing.

The Dominator

Ice down with Dominik Hasek, the most feared goalie in the NHL.

1 Skate Start:

As a kid in the Czech Republic, Dominik played on frozen ponds with borrowed skates that were blades screwed onto street shoes. When he was 4, he'd stand in a doorway and block tennis balls, not pucks.

2 Heads Up:

"It's my job to stop the puck, even if I have to use my head," he says. "People say that I flop around like some kind of fish. I say, 'Who cares as long as I stop the puck?'"

3 Super Stretch:

Hasek is double-jointed, so he can do a full leg split, then lean forward and touch his head to the ice—yowza!

4 Stargazing:

After Hasek led his country's team to Olympic gold, a Buffalo Sabres official said, "I feel like I'm with Elvis now. He's like a rock star." A Czech postage stamp came out with Hasek's image on it, and astronomers even named an asteroid after him!

5 Suit Case:

When a teammate kidded that he looked like Kramer from "Seinfeld," Hasek tossed the guy's suit down the toilet! Coaches even ask him to take it easy during drills. "We couldn't score on him in practice," says a former teammate. "He killed our confidence."

JUST GOO-IT

This software lets you mess with photos on your computer.

Now you can turn your little sister's smile into a smirk! All you need is imagination and Kai's SuperGOO. With this CD-ROM, you can smudge, stretch, smear, grow or shrink images into digital "goo." SuperGOO users (or "GOObies") can use their own photos or images from CD-ROM, video and the Web. In the "Fusion Room," you can create one far-out face from two photos. Combine your brother's eyes and your dad's ears; or create your very own Punk Rock Girl, complete with nose ring. (Windows/Mac)
